

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides an AV information processing unit comprising: an AV information recording unit for accumulating the AV information including the audio information or the like; plural agents for performing partial information processing, which is a part of the information processing requested to be performed from the outside, by using the accumulated AV information and performing the partial information, which are different from each other, separately and respectively; and a scenario selection and performing agent for shifting at least a portion of utility information from the agent, which performed one partial information processing, to the agent for performing other partial information processing so that at least a portion of the utility information used for the one partial information processing can be used in the other partial information processing.